Twelve local middle school teams have been selected to embark on a travel learning trip to England this summer, funded by Wai Yin Association's inspiring educational project "TES 2014".

Third year in its running and the first with Britain as destination, "TES 2014" includes two more teams than last year's, thanks to the continuing support from sponsors.

"Modern day England with an illustrious history is an inspiration to these students in putting their decade-long language study into practice," says Ms Loletta Chu, Project Head of TES 2014.

Standing for Travel Experience Share, TES provides motivated students from less privileged families an opportunity to travel overseas to experience a different culture and share their adventures through daily blogging on Facebook. Twelve school teams, each comprised three students aged 16 or above and a teacher, are selected on merits of their proposals on a 14-day study trip through several English cities. They were requested to research and plan their own study focuses, coordinate itineraries and travel logistics.

The trip takes place from 10 to 24 July 2014. On returning home, the teams will meet with judging panels to vie for several awards. The results are announced at a ceremony on 11 September at Festival Walk, Kowloon Tong, where an exhibition is mounted to display the students' effort to the public.
